hat "the man, who doesn't advertise his business, advertises that he las none to sake of epigrammatic point, but because it is to a very great extent true and is generally received as truth by the community. A person who wishes to pirchase articles goes where they are advertised as for sale: he doesn't think it worth his while to hunt around for them at random among dealers, who, from not advertising them, are presumed not to have them. In all such cases, the newspaper is justly regarded as the best business

Those who don t advert se at all, or only to a very limited extent, have failed to we believed this key was not in the posof business in all countries and in all times since the newspaper became an institution. The great lesson which expenence teaches is evident from the fact that the amount of advertising increases not only with every generation but with every decade and every year. You will never hear a man complain of having ad vertised too much, but thousands daily confess their regret at having neglected so sure and obvious a means of profit. Of all the numerous persons in the United States, who, during our long editorial l'fe, have distinguished themselves by the large extent of their advertising, we don't know of even one that has falled to amass considerable nerve at first to venture npon the expenditures necessary to advertising largely, but the wisdom of the policy is so well established now that precious little erve, if any, is called into requisition.

With all our partiality for Louisville, we are constrained to say that her business en seem to have a less enlightened com prch asi a of the p licy of advertising than those of cires in general. We don't knew of any city of her size. North or South, where there isn't twice as much advertising done as is done here. In cities of half or even a quarter of her size, there is more adverti ing than here. As a oneequence, our people seffer in their business, and our city is retarded in her prosperity. People abroad judge us by ur papers mire than Ly any other. And thus it must and will ever continue to be Occasionally you will find a man. a candidoe ut advertise because he isn't making any money! What a strangely absurd reason' If a man isn't making money, let ons ness where y he can make it and, it be is making a small or a large amount of money, let him advertise for the business shereby he can make more. Of all the housands who advertise, we don't believe that any fail to grout by it. And we have had far bett r means of udging than most people. The Washington Chronicle p ishes prominently the following call

Being profoundly impre sed with the importance of the struggle through which the country is passing, and of the necessity of preserving the results gained by its triumphs in the field, and more recently at the polls, the undersigned, a committee appointed by the Sold ers and Sailors Union of Washington, D. C., do in their name earmestly nite their comrades, the leval veterans of the Republic, with all other friends of the great cause of Union and liberty, to meet in a national mass welcome and conneil to be held in this, the Federal capital, on Sat rday, December THE GRAND MASS WELCOME TO CONCRE S Federal capital, on Sat rday, Decemb

We ask your presence to honor and assure protection to the loyal majority in the Thirty-minth Congress, in whom we recognize faithful guardians of our assailed institutions and alle supporters of the principles is wolved.

Come in your might! By your presence now how sternly loyalty can rebuke trea-on. Prove thereby that the threats and soults made against the legislative branch of the government cannot intimidate a free people. Here in the Federal capital must our great struggle culminate in wise and equitable legislation. Here, then, should we assemble to encourage and strengthen Congress—to whose hands the Constitution wisely entrusts the power—to such just action as will make peace to much just action as will make peace to make the power—to such just action as will make peace.

The object of this extraordinary gathering, as declared in the call, is twofold, namely. first, to "show how sternly loyalty can rebuke treason," and, secondly, to MOST DISEASES "honor and assure protection to the loyal majority in the Thirty-ninth Congress' and to "encourage and strengthen it to take "such just action as will make peace rmanent and liberty universal, this last clanse being italicised in the call, by way of enggesting the especial significance of HOME EVIDENCE gathering as declared in the rhetorical phraseology of the call. In plain Engish, the object of the gathering is to dannt the President and to spur Congress;-to incite Congress to decree negro suffrage, and to frighten the President into acquiescence. The object of the gathering, in short, is revolutionary, and the gathering itself will be not merely a direct insult to the President and an indirect one to Congress, but an offence against the public peace as well as an outrare upon public decays.

It is enough to make the blood of every patriot boil in his veins.

In view of this threatened demonstra tion, and of the general bearing of the radical party, we think the President would best consult his self-respect and the dignity of his office by kicking out of his presence all radical counsellors with their conservative abettors, and shutting the door in their faces. The time has come for the conservatives of the country to show their backbone. Compliance has had its day. Submission to the revolutionary threats of the radicals would be a sacrifice not simply of some natural resentment but of all manhood. The conservatives, outnumbering the radicals by upwards of a million, stand within the rampart of the law. Ay, they stand within the citadel of the Constitution. The radicals, forming a miserable minority of the whole country, are outside of both. Is this law-defying minority to bully the law-abiding majority into ac quiescence in the subversion of the government and the political enslavement of W.H.WALKER&CO. themselves? Are the bulk of the people of the United States, standing within the Constitution and the laws, not only to be frightened by the recreant odds and ends in array against that stronghold, but to be so badly frightened as to spike their own
